"The student of the Talmud, the child that I was, had been consumed in flames. There remained only a shape that looked like me. A dark flame had entered into my soul and devoured it."

Find and record five quotes describing something Elie Wiesel experiences (sees, hears, smells, etc) at Birkenau that would have perpetuated that change in him.

Out of the five descriptions, choose the one that you believe would have changed him the most. Explain why that experience (as opposed to the others) would have impacted him the most.

Name: _____
