SHIFT HAPPENS

According to the multi-media presentation watched in class, what you are learning right now may be out-of-date for the current job market; but, what about for the market of the future? According to Forbes.com, "if you want to ride the crest of increasing employment over the next 10 years," you should consider the employment areas with the brightest future.

Listed below are ten of those areas (according to the US Bureau of Labor Statistics). Here are your goals regarding these areas:

- 1) Research each of these jobs fields and become familiar with the requirements of each field. (write the name of the website below each field where you read about the requirements)
- 2) Highlight four jobs fields you are interested in learning more about and star the two fields (out of those four) that you'd most like to pursue.
- 3) For the two starred fields, provide an explanation as to why each one is such a fast-growing field. What is the reason(s) for the projected rise of each one? Additionally, explain why you are interested in learning more about each of those two fields.
